

Dr. Giorgos Perkoulidis

Member of the Laboratory Teaching Staff at Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, mechanical engineer with a PhD in thermal treatment of solid waste and siting of waste management facilities using multi-criteria analysis. He has extensive teaching experience, has supervised 50 diploma theses, and contributed to the development of digital courses. He has participated in 26 research projects on circular economy, recycling, and renewable energy sources. His research work includes 27 publications, 1032 citations, and an h-index of 14. He is the coordinator of activities for the Northern Greece Committee of the Hellenic Solid Waste Management Association.