

Dimitrios Psychogios

Dimitrios Psychogios is an Associate Professor of Finance and Investments at the Department of Industrial Management & Technology at the University of Piraeus, as well as the First Vice President of the Regulatory Authority for Energy (RAE).

He graduated from the Department of Mathematics at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA) and holds an MBA and a PhD in Finance from the Athens University of Economics and Business (AUEB).

Dimitrios Psychogios began his academic career at the Manchester Business School, University of Manchester, where he served as a Lecturer in Finance until 2009. Since 2009, he has been a faculty member at the Department of Industrial Management & Technology at the University of Piraeus.

His scientific research has been presented at renowned international conferences and published in prestigious international scientific journals. His research focuses on four main areas:

1. Finance of Environment and Energy
2. Investment Finance and Financial Derivatives
3. Corporate Finance
4. Macro-Finance

He has taught in MBA and postgraduate programs at Greek, European, and American universities, delivering courses such as Energy Finance, Environmental Finance, Financial Management, Financial Derivatives, and Project Finance.

Additionally, he has coordinated or participated in numerous research, consulting, and training projects for businesses and organizations across Europe and Greece, covering topics such as Energy and Environmental Finance, Project and Business Financing, the Shadow Economy, and its impact on the National Economy.